Introduction

The Police Ombudsman's Office (the Office) collects data on each of the categories specified in Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998. Every person that makes a complaint to the Office is asked to complete an equality monitoring form and completed forms are returned to the Information and Communication Unit within the Office. The data contained within this form are used for statistical purposes only and are not shared with other members of staff.

The survey findings enable the Office to monitor access to the service provided to the public across the categories specified in Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998.

The questionnaire includes the categories of age, gender, marital status, employment status, sexual orientation, community background, race, country of birth, disability, dependants and political opinion.

This statistical report presents the results from the equality monitoring questionnaires that were issued to complainants for complaints received during 2022/23. During the year, we issued 2,791 survey forms¹ and 599 were completed and returned to the Office. This equates to a 21% response rate based on the number of forms issued and a 20% response rate when based on all public complaints received last year.

The results detailed in this report are based on the 599 completed questionnaires we received, however we have been able to determine age and gender from information provided during the complaints process. Age therefore is known for 83% of all complainants and gender is known for 98%. All other Section 75 information was obtained from the survey forms only.

Official Statistics

This is an Official Statistics publication. Official Statistics are produced to high professional standards set out in the Code of Practice for Statistics. Compliance with the Code gives confidence that the statistics are of public value, are of high quality and that they can be trusted. They are also produced free from any political interference.

¹ See Appendix 2: Data Limitations

Survey Findings

This section summarises the main findings from the Equality Monitoring Survey carried out during 2022/23. The data is based on the information supplied by complainants who completed the questionnaire. Age and gender was also determined from the complainant's date of birth and salutation which was provided during the complaints process. In Appendix 1, the results are displayed in a series of tables.

Age

During 2022/23, just over a fifth of complainants were aged 25 to 34, a quarter were aged 35 to 44 and just under a quarter were aged 45 to 55. Smaller proportions of complainants were aged under 25 and 55 & over (Figure 1, Table 1).

Gender

During 2022/23, just over three fifths of complaints were made by males and just under two fifths were made by females (Figure 2, Table 2).

Age and Gender

In terms of gender and age combined, over a third of complaints received during 2022/23 were from females aged over 25. Over half of complaints were made by males aged over 25 during this time (Figure 3, Table 3).

Marital Status

In 2022/23 the largest proportion of complaints were made by single people followed by people who were married or in a civil partnership. Smaller proportions of complaints were made by people who were divorced, separated, co-habiting or widowed (Figure 4, Table 4).

Note: Married includes those in a civil partnership.

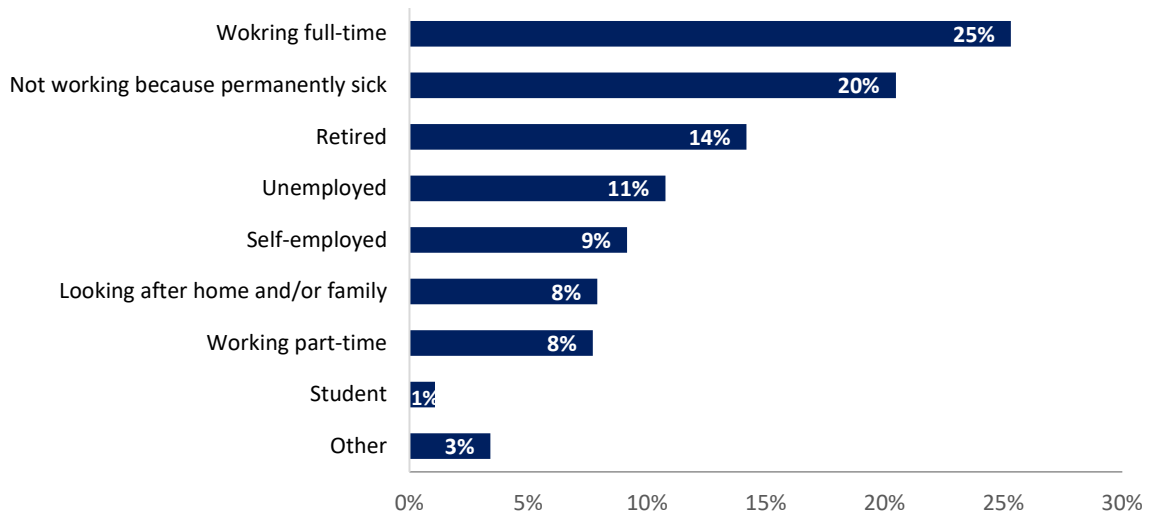

Divorced includes those formally in a civil partnership which is now legally dissolved.

Widowed includes those who are a surviving member of a civil partnership.

Employment Status

In 2022/23, just over two fifths of complaints were made by a person who reported that they were working; either full-time, part-time or were self-employed (Figure 5, Table 5). A fifth of complainants were not working as they were permanently sick. Smaller proportions of complaints were made by people who were retired, unemployed, looking after their home or family or were studying.

Sexual Orientation

During 2022/23, almost nine in ten complaints were made by a person who reported that their sexual attraction was towards someone of the opposite sex. Fewer complaints were made by people who reported being sexually attracted to people of the same sex or to people of the same and opposite sex (Figure 6, Table 6).

Community Background

In 2022/23, less than half (45%) of respondents reported that they were from a Protestant community background and over a third (36%) reported they were from a Catholic community background. Almost a fifth (18%) reported that their community background was neither Catholic nor Protestant (Table 7).

Racial Group

In 2022/23, the majority of respondents (95%) reported their race to be White (Table 8). The remaining 5% reported their race to be either Black African, Black Caribbean, Chinese, Indian, Irish Travelling Community, mixed ethnic group, Pakistani or other.

Country of Birth

During 2022/23, the majority of respondents (86%) stated that they were born in Northern Ireland (Table 9). A further 4% were born in England, 3% in the Republic of Ireland, 1% in either Scotland or Wales and 6% were born in an “Other” country.

Disability

Three fifths (60%) of respondents in 2022/23 self-reported that they did not have a disability while two fifths (40%) self-reported that they had (Table 10).

Disability is a complex concept and there are a number of ways of defining it. For monitoring purposes we provided respondents with a description of disability as defined by the Disability Discrimination Act (1995) which is “a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial and adverse effect on a person’s ability to carry out normal day to day activities”.

Dependants

Over half of respondents (54%) in 2022/23 stated that they did not have dependants while less than half of respondents (46%) reported that they did (Table 11).

Political Opinion

In 2022/23, 41% of respondents who answered the political opinion question indicated that 'no political party' best represented their current political opinion. Just over a quarter of respondents (26%) indicated that a Unionist party best represented their current political opinion and just under a fifth (19%) indicated that a Nationalist party did. Less than a sixth of respondents (14%) indicated that either the Alliance party or an "Other" political party best represented their current political opinion (Table 12).

Appendix 2: Background and Methodology

The Office of the Police Ombudsman for Northern Ireland was set up by the Police (Northern Ireland) Act 1998 in order to provide an impartial and independent system for investigating complaints against the police in Northern Ireland.

The Office is committed to fulfilling the obligations laid upon it by Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) (the “equality duties”). To help us achieve this a confidential self-completion questionnaire is sent to every complainant², asking for information relevant to the ten categories specified in Section 75 of the Act. In some instances the complainant only provides us with an email address. At the start of the year we developed a digital copy of the survey form and emailed it to those individuals who otherwise we would have been unable to survey via post. We emailed a total of 120 forms during the year and three were returned to us (less than 3% response rate).

As we are committed to providing a service to all individuals and socio-economic groups within our society, we also ask a question on the additional category of employment status, which we consider to be a reliable indicator of economic deprivation.

On receipt of returned questionnaires they are input to the Office’s Case Handling System (CHS) with the complaint data. Only the staff who are directly involved in the processing of the equality monitoring data have data access permissions to this information. Staff involved in the handling and investigation of the complaint do not, at any time, have access to these data.

The equality database is downloaded and analysed using a combination of software including Di Diver, Microsoft Excel and SPSS packages.

The figures in this statistical report are based on the information received between 1 April 2022 and 31 March 2023. When completing the form not all respondents answered each of the questions (with Sexual Orientation and Political Opinion having the lowest response rates). The response rates for each category (excluding gender and age as they were also calculated from salutation and date of birth) ranged from 67% to 96%, when based on the number of forms returned, and ranged from 13% to 19%, when based on the total number of public complaints received in 2022/23. Information on the achieved sample for each question is presented in the tables in Appendix 1.

² Apart from a very small number who have asked not to be contacted by the office or for whom we have insufficient contact information.

There were larger samples of complainants for whom gender and age information was available, from administrative data sources. In addition to those respondents who declared their gender on the monitoring form, it was possible to determine a majority of complainants' gender from their title or salutation, giving a total sample of 98% for whom gender was known. It was also possible to determine complainants' ages from their date of birth, where it was provided, giving an overall sample of 83% for whom age was known.

Figures in the tables may not add up to 100% due to the effect of rounding. Figures may also be subject to minor revision. The Police Ombudsman Revisions Policy is available at http://www.policeombudsman.org/revisions_policy.

The Office has conducted the Equality Monitoring Survey since it opened in November 2000. All survey findings are published annually and are available on the Office website at <http://www.policeombudsman.org/publications/equality>.

Data use

The data collected are used by the Office to monitor access to the service provided to the public across the categories specified in Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998, and to report to the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland. The data may also be used to answer enquiries from the Northern Ireland Assembly, the Department of Justice, Parliament and the public.

Data quality

Equality Monitoring Survey data are considered to be of high quality. Police Ombudsman staff carry out regular quality assurance reviews of all data input into the CHS. For the Equality Monitoring Survey, staff input the data to the CHS and supervisors undertake a 10% data quality check to ensure that transfer of the information is accurate. Where necessary, data may be corrected. There is a possibility of a small number of errors arising from data input, missing data, failure to update data and errors in communication. The Police Ombudsman estimates that the level of error is so small that it has no impact on the quality of statistical reporting. However, where identified, corrections are made to reports as soon as is practicable.

Caution should be exercised when comparing this report and previous reports to the survey carried out in 2020/21. The number of completed equality monitoring forms received during 2020/21 was lower than in previous years due to the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic, which resulted in reminder forms not being issued during the year. The data therefore may be less representative of all complaints received during the year than for previous years and also the margin of error around the results may be higher.

Data limitations

Equality monitoring forms are issued to the vast majority of complainants. However, in some cases forms are not issued, for example when it is impossible to identify the complainant, i.e. when the Complaints Officer has recorded the complainant as anonymous or because the complainant's address is not recorded. In other cases, complainants may contact the Office to ask to be excluded from future surveys. While staff aim to encourage the complainant to complete the survey by explaining its purpose, there are some cases where the complainant still wishes to be excluded.
