

Monthly Bulletin

August 2015

Police acted in best way to stop man killing himself

A man has said police did the right thing when they used Taser to prevent him killing himself in Belfast city centre in April last year.

The Police Ombudsman, Dr Michael Maguire, concluded that the use of Taser during the incident had been lawful, justified, proportionate and necessary and had successfully resolved “a volatile and potentially dangerous situation.”

Officer failed to fully investigate house break-in

Police did not use too much force during arrest of youth

Politics no role in Adams investigation

Georgian delegation visits Office

No party alignment for most complainants

‘Sometimes things don’t quite go to plan...’

www.policeombudsman.org

11 Church Street
BELFAST
BT1 1PG
02890 828600

info@policeombudsman.org